The PRESENT STATE of EUROPE: A NEW EDITION.

WITHOUT a Friend, without a Foe,
(Except who ſlyly may be ſo)
Britain beholds all States encroaching,
Her Native Fiſhery call'd——Poaching;
Her Commerce ſinking paſt Revival,
France growing faſt a Naval Rival,
Her Weakneſs——all can tell you where,
Her Influence——neither here nor there,
The Dutch, tho' bleſs'd with a Stadtholder,
Are neither better grown, nor bolder:
Except the Boldneſs of a Bully
May paſs, when practis'd on a Cully.
France deals the Honours as ſhe pleaſes,
And what ſhe gives about, Spain ſeizes:
Whence ſome conjecture, who have ſeen 'em,
They play for Italy——between 'em.
The Empire has a Head, 'tis true;
Yet every Member does purſue
Its private intereſt, like a Stranger:
Which puts the Head in obvious Danger.
Pruſſia's long Arm, ſurrounds the Body,
And little heeds th' Imperial Noddy.
Of Poland needleſs 'tis to ſing;
There Louis Father-in-Law is King.
Some think in Time there may be Work,
Among the Chriſtians for the Turk:
And that, with Pruſſia, France, and Sweden,
The Terms already lies agreed on.
Denmark's new Treaty ſhews her Temper;
And Ruſſia's great Eadem's Semper
Has not a Neighbour to make Friend on,
But England, whom ſhe can't depend on;
Or Auſtria, who, as Things are ſtated,
For Self-Defence may now be fated.
This ſeems at preſent Europe's Caſe!
Theſe are the Benefits of Peace.

BOSTON, April 16.

Extract of a Letter from an Officer in Capt. Gorham's Company, dated at River St. Croix, March 26, 1750, to a Gentleman in this Place.

SINCE my laſt from Hallifax, Capt. Gorham's Company being ordered to make a Lodgment at Pizquit, and on the 21ſt Inſt. after two Days march we arrived at the firſt Houſe on this River, which being abandon'd by the French Inhabitants, together with the French Courier's not arriving from different Parts of the Province as uſual, gave us Reaſon to think the Enemy had taken Poſſeſſion of the River.—I was detach'd with a Party to the next Village as an advance guard, to gain Intelligence, which was over a narrow rapid River: At the paſs of the oppoſite Side I diſcovered a Party of the Enemy in a thick bruſh within Muſquet Shot. I made the firſt Fire upon them, which diſconcerted their Deſigns againſt me; as they quitted their Poſt, and fled from the River, returned the Fire with no Succeſs, as I had betook my Party under ſhelter of ſome Hay Stands nigher the river, which forming in an Angle with a Dyke of their Side only, they ſoon made uſe of it and flank'd me, which obliged me to quit that Poſt and retreat, which was with much better Succeſs than we could poſſibly expect conſidering the Advantage they had by the Situation of the Ground: However we all got off with a few Cloth wounds only.—I then made the beſt of my Return to join the Company which was attack'd in fording the River by a Party that had placed themſelves in ambuſcade the oppoſite Side of the River; they taking the Opportunity when Capt. Gorham was left but with a few Men to guard the Baggage, he having detach'd Lieutenant Watmaug, to aſſiſt me upon the firſt hearing of my Attack with a ſtrong Party: The Enemy therefore was it ſeems almoſt ſure of the Prize, as they call'd to Capt. Gorham by Name, after advancing from the Bank to the River to ford, offering him good Quarters if he would ſurrender; but they ſoon found their Miſtake, he reſerved his Fire for their nearer approach, which was the only Thing prevented their ruſhing on: We ſoon joined the Company and forced their Retreat up to the Wood, in which we killed one of the rebel Inhabitants, which is ſince confirmed by Deputies: We then erected our Colours, as they on the other Side hoiſted the white Rag.—They had much Advantage of us by their high Situation of the Ground which overlook'd ours, and obliged us to fall back about 20 yards from our Baggage, where we took Shelter chiefly under a Saw-Mill: We received a Fire from the Enemy on all Sides for ſix Hours without Intermiſſion, which we returned partly with beat of Drum and Huzza's, not caring to ſpend our Ammunition without a ſure Proſpect of doing Execution. At Night we took Poſſeſſion of a French Houſe and Barn, which we ſtill hold, after bringing off all our Baggage by ſmall Parcels from under their Fire—In this Skirmiſh Capt. Gorham received a Shot in his Thigh, which glanced the Bone, and is ſince cut out, he loſt much Blood by fighting near two Hours after he was wounded; three more of the Company were alſo wounded, but all like to do well.—Our Men behaved exceeding well, except one who ſhamefully deſerted us in Time of Engagement, and fled to Halifax.—I am ſince informed his Excellency has ordered a general Court-Martial to try him.—The Day after our Skirmiſh the Deputies came and informed us that the Enemy had drew off which conſiſted of Indians of River St. Jonn's, Mackmaes, and rebel Inhabitants, that had been there ſeveral Days, waiting for our arrival: They gave out they were gone to Cobaget to fetch 150 more, that were there to guard the Maſs-Houſe, upon hearing a Party of Engliſh were coming to deſtroy it. On the 24th we were reinforced by Capt. St. Lo, and Capt. Clapham, with near a hundred men from Halifax: Fifty Men of General Philips's Regiment is ordered from Minas to join us at Pizquit: So let them make the moſt of their Forces, we ſhall be able to give them a good Reception if they chuſe to reviſit us."

And by another Letter dated at Halifax April 3. we learn, that Capt. Rous, Capt. Cobb, and ſeveral other Veſſels, were then bound to Minas, where they are to embark 500 Men; and go to beat up the Quarters of the French at Chignecto, who we hear have rais'd ſome kind of Fortifications. Major Lawrence is to command by Land; they carry Field-Pieces and other neceſſaries to diſlodge the French.

Extract of a Letter from Cadiz, to a Gentleman in this Town, dated Feb. 25, 1750.

"Laſt Night, or rather Evening, a very raſh action was committed here by a young Spaniſh Officer, in ſetting the Soldiers againſt the Boat's Crew of the Nightingale Man of War, Captain Arbuthnot, and proceeding to take the Captain, and a Gentleman that was going on board with him, out of the Boat, and beating the Sailors.—The Spaniſh Officer took Care to be in the wrong in every Particular.—He caus'd the King's Colours to be ſtruck, the Arm cheſt to be open'd and the Arms brought on Shore. As ſoon soon as I got to the Mould the Governor ordered the Captain to be releas'd, and every Thing to be disposed as I should desire. I tho't it proper to conduct the Captain to my House, but to leave the Spoil to the Captors. We are now busy in taking Depositions, to send by an Express to Mr. Keene, to make Complaint directly to the King of Spain, it being of too high Nature to be decided here.
